Industry Scenario and Developments

The Indian Food Industry is poised for huge growth, increasing its contribution in world food trade every year. In India, the food sector has emerged as a high-profit section on the back of the scope it offers for value addition, particularly with food processing industry getting recognized as a high priority area.

Global Mushroom Industry has expanded horizontally and vertically, meaning that the expansion has been in production and addition of newer types of edible mushroom varieties for commercial cultivation. Today China is leading in global mushroom production. The second highest mushroom producing country is USA, followed by European Union Countries.

The Mushroom market has grown exponentially in the last few years and this trend is projected to continue. The market was valued at $29,427.92 million in 2013 and at a CAGR of 9.5% from 2014, it is projected to reach $50,034.12 million by 2019.

The market is being driven by the rise in consumption of processed food, rise in consumer awareness about health and wellness, cultivation being a promising and profitable business, and continuous R&D and innovations to expand applicability and accelerate growth. On the other hand, limited shelf-life is the major challenge faced by the mushroom market. (Source : www.researchandmarkets.com)

OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS

The Food Processing Industry is one of the largest industries in India and is ranked fifth in terms of production, consumption, export and expected growth. The total food production in India is likely to double in the next 10 years with the country's domestic food market estimated to reach $258 billion by 2015-2016.

The role of the Indian Government has been instrumental in the growth and development of the industry. The Government through the Ministry of Food Processing Industries (MoFPI) is making all efforts to encourage investments in the sector.

It has approved proposals for Joint Ventures (JV), Foreign collaboration, Industrial licenses and 100 per cent export oriented units.

The opportunities of expansion in the food processing industry are vast. However, there is need to improve technology and productivity to be competitive globally. As the economy grows, the food processing industry will offer bigger opportunities to the new as well as existing players.

Although India is endowed with favorable natural agro-climate and a rich source of agro-wastes that could be exploited for cultivation of diverse mushroom species, yet the country does not have any significant status either as a mushroom producer or as a consumer. Mushrooms give significant health benefits and possess medicinal properties. There is tremendous scope for diversifying mushroom export by including other mushroom species. With the current growth rate of the Indian Economy, the domestic market too for the mushrooms is likely to enlarge sooner than later

In the current fast growing economy, our business is challenged by regulatory policy changes, raw material pricing, power tariff cost, weather changes, changing consumer demand, impact of currency fluctuations and competition from domestic as well as international front.

To address these risks, the Company has a single point source supplier of Frozen/IQF (Individually Quick Frozen), Air Dried as well as Freeze Dried products to the customers as per their requirements with high quality mushrooms and herbs. Though the competition is fierce, the goodwill and the quality of the products offered by the Company are great plus factors and the Company is well poised to meet the challenge of competition. The Company had expanded its freeze drying capacity by adding print of art freeze dried cabinets.

Future Outlook

Indian food processing industry is poised for high growth driven by changing demographics, growing population and rapid urbanization. These factors will increase the demand for value added products and thus improve the prospects of food processing industry in India.

With the growing awareness for nutritive and quality by growing health conscious population, the demand for food including mushroom is quickly rising and will continue to rise with increase in global population and expandable income.
